WILL CALL M'CLAVE. FIRE FOLLWS

Off to Resume the Commissioner's Examination To-Morrow.

We Has Not Yet Considered the Summoning of Croker.

Belief that Son-in-Law Granger Will Be Within Reach.

When the Lexow Committee resume its sessions again to-morrow morning it is the intention of the counsel for the Committee to go on with the examination of Police Commissioner McClave.

Chief Ahearn, going through the building, found four-year-old Lizzie Yacger on the third floor. She was unconscious, and so badly burned that she died shortly after being taken to the Gouverneur Hoscommittee to go on with the examination.

It committee to go on with the examination.

It commissioner McClave.

Chief Coursel Goff held a consultation this morning with Lawyers Jerome and Moss, at which the programme for tomic microw was mapped out.

"We propose," said Mr. Goff, "to go on in the line which has been it ken up for the present, and not allow ourselves to be diverted by any side issues. It is the only way in which we can accomplish any effectual results.

"If Mr. McClave is well enough to go upon the stand to-morrow," and there was a suggestive twinkle of the lawyer's eyes as he alluded to the Police Commissioner's sudden indisposition of Tuesday, "we will proceed with his examination."

"If not, will Commissioner Sheehan be a witness."

"That is entirely unauthorized, and I can say right here that I have never given any one the slightest ground for such a statement. I know nothing whatever of this alleged story of ex-Alderman Cavanagh. It is said, is willing to testify as to a certain trucking contract with the Metropolitan Railway Company, which he had for many years, but which, as a result of unfriendliness on the part of Mr. Croker towards Cavanagh, the latter lost, and it went to a Tammany Hall man. Cavanagh was a County Democrat.

"I hardly think an investigation into such a matter as that would be within the province of the Committee," said Mr. Groff, "At all events I have given no consideration to the question of callings Mr. Croker, for the present at least."

Vernon, Granger's reputed counsel, as a witness?"

"No, I haven't had any communication with him at all. If the other side is so anxious to get Granger on the witness-stand again it may do something to get him here, but I have had nothing to get him here, but I have had nothing to do with Stillwell at all, and he has not come to me."

It is generally understood that Mr. Stillwell knows where Granger is, and could produce him if he wanted to at any moment. In fact, he stated to reporters in the Court-House last Tuesday that it would not be hard for him to find Granger if he wanted to see him.

There is some reason to believe that Mr. Stillwell may come to town with Granger to-morrow morning and keep him within easy call should it be deemed advisable to bring him to the front again.

deemed advisable to bring him to the front again.

With regard to the possible prosecution of Witness O'Kelly for perjury, a rumor to which effect has been in circulation since Tuesday, Mr. Goff stated this morning that he had as yet taken no steps in that direction, nor had he advised the Committee to make an example of O'Kelly for the benefit of other witnesses who might be inclined to tell one story off the stand and another when they had been sworn.

The Health Department is particularly anxious about the case in the Charity Hospital. Post has been an inmate of the place for some time, but it is not known how he contracted the disease. There was a case of small-pox there on April 25, but that could not have caused the present outbreak. All the patients in the hospital will be vaccinated today.

When the firemen did arrive they were not many minutes in getting ladders up to the building and rescuing those of the people who remained in the place.

The street was crowded for a block on either side by a struggling, fighting mass of people. A dozen women cried and begged the firemen to rescue missing friends and relatives, who, they were certain, were still in the building.

Rintz was about to enter the building when he was prevented by a policeman, who stood before the door and told the grief-stricken man that the firemen had nothing to say, that it didn't make any difference who was burned he could not go in.

The first intimation the principal had that an alarm had been sent in was when he was met in the hall on the second floor of the school building by the fire chilef and his men. Mr. Sieberg assured the firemen that there was no fire there, and that no one had sent in an alarm.

An investigation developed the fact, however that the fire-box on the second landing of the visitors' entrance had been tampered with. It was found open. The key was in its place. Underneath the box was a stool that had been in a store-room near by. Further investigation showed muddy footprints leading from the street to the box. Evidently a boy in the street did the mischief. Principal Sieberg does not believe any of his scholars are guilty.

VANCOUVER, B. C., May 31.—The Frazer River is still rising, and the indications are that the flood will be even more disastrous than the memorable one of 1852. The river has siready risen within eight inches of the high water mark of that great inundation. The whole valley is under water, the Frazer having spread out into a vast lake. The tide is now crawling up at the rate of an inch every three hours.

At Westminster the river wharves are submerged. Many cabins along the water front have floated off on the tide, and many poor families have lost all their belongings. Points further up the river report that the danger increases. At Nicomen Island forty-four fine farms are entirely under water.
